Colonials Meet Nodaks In Final Game Thursday

New Student Band To Make Initial Appearance In Colonial Uniforms At N. Dakota Game

Credit Goes to Student Council; Rinehart, Free, Malkus Carry Brunt of Work; First Meeting Less Than a Month Ago

The student band with its members resplendent in their elaborately embellished Colonial style uniforms will make its debut at the Thanksgiving Day football game when the Colonials meet the powerful North Dakota aggregation at Griffith Stadium. The promotion of the band had its inception early this fall when the Student Council announced that plans were being made for such an organization and issued a call for all students desiring to play.

Much interest is being evidenced in this first public appearance of the latest student musical organization to be formed. Previous seasons have seen the advent and upbuilding of the Troubadours, and the nationally known Men's Glee Club. Each of these organizations has been outstanding and the same measure of success is indicated for the band.

Prominent among those who have worked for the promotion of the band are Ted Rinehart, chairman; Jerry Free, of the student council committee organized to promote the band, and Louis Malkus. Ted Rinehart, as a member of the Student Council, has carried the brunt of the organization work during the past several weeks. The work of Jerry Free has been of especial value in getting the band ready for a public appearance on such short notice. The first meeting of the candidates for the band was not held until about November 1, and in just four weeks from that date they are ready to contribute their bit toward maintaining the morale of the Colonials in one of their most important contests. The band will also be an important aid in arousing the necessary enthusiasm in the student cheering sections.

Malkus is Director

The selection of Louis Malkus, formerly of Oklahoma State University, as director of the band was fortunate. Mr. Malkus has worked hard in rounding the band into shape for an early appearance, and much credit is due him for the hearty cooperation he has secured from the student body and the officials of the University. Candidates for the band have met twice weekly throughout November and have worked industriously and faithfully to overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

While a student at Oklahoma State University Mr. Malkus was student director of the band for four years. He was also a student for the master's degree in the Musical Institute of Art and Columbia University in New York. He has received private tutoring from the famous Belgian woodwind artist, Gustav Langenus, and several well-known American musicians, after which he returned to Oklahoma State as instructor of musical instruments and director of the military band at that institution. He returned to New York last fall for further study, coming to Washington this spring to organize bands in the public schools of the District of Columbia.

An important factor in the realization of the Student Council's hope for a student band this fall has been the hearty cooperation of many of the students and organizations who previously had made pledges to the fund for the furnishing of the proposed student union building. Many of the pledges were transferred to the fund established for the purpose of purchasing uniforms, and instruments for the band and for paying other necessary expenses.

Interfrat Council Will Give Smoker

Council Fraternities to Be Entertained at Argyle Country Club

The Interfraternity Council announces a Smoker to be held at the Argyle Country Club on Thursday, December 3, at eight o'clock, for members and pledges of Council fraternities.

Under the direction of a committee composed of Jack Vivian, Frank Hale, and Bill Hanback, a program of entertainment has been arranged. Short speeches will be made by Professors Kayser and Roberts, C. Manley Feiler, president of the Interfraternity Council, and Jack Vivian, chairman of the committee. A regular smoker repertoire is being prepared which no man will want to miss.

This is part of an extensive program on the part of the Interfraternity Council to promote better relations and spirit between the societies on the campus.

Pi Delta Epsilon Bids Men Active With Publications

Men on Staffs of Cherry Tree and Hatchet Rewarded for Effort

Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity for men at George Washington University, has announced that eleven students active in publications work have been extended bids to membership in the organization. Those honored include C. Manley Feiler, Lester Gates, John J. Heimburger, Gerald Free, Archie Burgess, John T. Vivian, Gordon Potter, Samuel B. Detweiler, Jr., Wilbur McNallen, Roger Marquis, and John Walstrom. These men will be initiated at a model initiation ceremony, a part of the program for the national convention of the fraternity which is to be held at the University in the spring.

Feiler is a member of the board of editors of The Hatchet, and has been associated with the Cherry Tree staff. Gates is business manager of The Hatchet, having been appointed after two years' service on the advertising staff. Heimburger is the present editor of The Monthly Literary Review.

Archie Burgess is art editor of The Cherry Tree, a position he has held for two years.

Free has recently been elected photographic editor of the Cherry Tree and Walstrom is fraternities editor of the Cherry Tree. Marquis has served two years on the business staff of The Hatchet and is circulation manager.

Vivian, Potter, Detweiler, and McNallen were all selected for their work on the editorial staff of The Hatchet.

Gigantic Pep Rally Called By O. D. K.

Pep Meeting to Take Place in Campus Yard Tomorrow Before 5 o'Clock

An innovation in pep rallies is announced by Omicron Delta Kappa prior to the Thanksgiving game between George Washington and North Dakota. Win Weitzel, in charge of arrangements for the rally, is planning to have the University band form on Twentieth Street on Wednesday afternoon at 30 minutes to five and march up G street into the University Yard, where a rally will be conducted under the supervision of the cheer leaders.

Coach Pixlee and other prominent University men will speak. Practice will be held on the George Washington cheer, including the chant, a heretofore neglected yell.

A special cheering section is being formed for the Alabama fracas on December 12. As the George Washington cheering section will be competing with sections from the two other schools it is particularly desirable to develop a smooth working unit.

Women Debaters To Hold Tryouts For Team Dec. 1

Each Candidate to Present Four-Minute Argument For or Against Capitalism

Preliminary try-outs for the Women's Intercollegiate Debating team will be held in Room 1, Building Q, Tuesday, December 1, at 1:10 p. m. The women taking part in these try-outs will compose the intercollegiate debate squad from which the teams will be picked.

A four-minute speech for or against capitalism will be required. A bibliography on the subject of Socialism versus Capitalism may be secured from the Division of Bibliography of the Library of Congress. Further details may be obtained from Professor Harding of the Public Speaking department.

The subject chosen for these preliminary speeches is of special interest at this time. Many members of last year's teams attended the Fish-Thomas debate "Is Capitalism Worth Saving?" last Thursday night at the Masonic Temple. Those present brought back enthusiastic reports of an interesting debate and of valuable information received on the subject. Several current books deal with the subject of Capitalism very competently. The Public Speaking department will gladly give information concerning these books.

Episcopal Club Has Social Gathering in New Rooms

The Episcopal Club met Wednesday evening at its club rooms in St. John's parish. The use of these rooms has been given the club by Reverend Shearer for the entire year. Entertainment was furnished by Mr. Trask, who gave several vocal selections, and by Mrs. Wells, who followed with selected readings.

The club has been divided into two teams in a competition to obtain new members. The next meeting will be at 8 o'clock, December 10, at the same place.

Essayists To Honor Goethe Anniversary

Prizes Are Offered for Both German and English Essays

In commemoration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the death of Goethe the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., announces a national essay contest, open to all undergraduates at colleges and universities throughout the United States. Students may compete with essays in either the English or German language, as there will be a first prize of $200 awarded to the winning essay in each language. The total awards will amount to almost $1,000.

Rules of the contest and the choice of subjects are announced on a poster which can be secured at the headquarters of the organization in Philadelphia. Papers must be submitted to the foundation in Philadelphia not later than September 15, 1932, and are limited to 5,000 words.

Prominent professors of German at some of the leading American colleges and universities have agreed to serve as judges.

Who's Who in Troubadours

BERT BAGRANOFF

This handsome Troubadour hero needs little introduction. He is an accomplished singer, combining the brawn of a football player with the voice of a singer.

But football is second to music in Bert's opinion. Both here in Washington and in his home town, St. Louis, Bert is prominent as a really fine tenor. We know his voice through "Gypsy" in Egypt, the Troubadour show of 1929, in which he played the leading role. And we know it equally well through his very frequent broadcasts over stations WMAL and WOL.

Reserved Seats Thursday Available for Fifty Cents

Students who wish to obtain reserved seat tickets for the North Dakota game Thursday afternoon may obtain them in the stockroom in the basement of Stockton Hall at a cost of 50 cents plus an activity ticket. The regular price of these reserved seats is $2.

Dollar Tea Dance Will Follow Game

O. D. K. Will Sponsor Thursday's Dance; Proceeds Will Be Given to Charity

On Thanksgiving Day, immediately following the George Washington-North Dakota game Omicron Delta Kappa will give a dollar tea dance in Corcoran Hall 10 from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The profits of this tea dance are to go to charity. Who will be the recipient of the proceeds has not yet been decided.

Through the courtesy of the Interfraternity Council, which had a dance scheduled for this date, both the floor and the music was acquired. The University is donating the use of the hall for the occasion. Preparations are being made for special entertainment. Goldman's band will furnish the music.

Bill Thompson, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, was elected chairman of the dance committee at the Acadia house Sunday. He announced that this will be the first of a series of events for the benefit of various campus organizations.

Six Orators Chosen By Sigma Delta Phi

Finals December 4 for Freshmen Women's Oratorical Contest

"The Greatest American," "Literacy," "Dormitory of George Washington," "Racketeering," and "Sportsmanship" are some of the subjects of the orations handed in by University students for the Freshmen Women's Oratorical Contest which is under the sponsorship of Sigma Delta Phi. From the speeches submitted, six were selected to be delivered by their authors at the final contest which will be held December 4 at 8 o'clock in Corcoran Hall.

The winner of the event will be awarded a silver loving-cup by the fraternity; second place honors will receive honorable mention.

Professor Willard Hayes Yeager, head of the Public Speaking Department; Miss Kathleen Duggan, national secretary of Delta Sigma Rho, and Dr. Gilbert Hall, instructor in the University Law School, will be the judges. All students and faculty interested are invited.

Theta Delts Donate Piano To Glee Club

Men Sing at Columbian Women's Reception Friday Evening

Through the generosity of Theta Delta Chi fraternity the Glee Club finally has a piano of its own. For some time the club has shifted about without being sure of a piano for its practice. The Theta Delts have presented one which will be for Glee Club use only.

Last Friday night the club sang at the reception of the faculty by the Columbian Women at the Hay-Adams House. Its next engagement will be tomorrow at the Masonic Auditorium, where it will sing before one of the Masonic bodies. Next Thursday, December 3, it will sing over WMAL in a Community Chest program.

Buff And Blue Gridders Will Play Powerful North Dakota Team In Thanksgiving Contest

Visitors Have Impressive Record of Eight Wins, One Loss, And a Tie; Duquesne Holds Only Victory Over Siouxmen; G. W. Will Present Power

George Washington University's football team will terminate its 1931 schedule when it meets the powerful Nodaks from North Dakota in what purports to be a classic of the gridiron. The game, which will be held in the Griffith Stadium, starts at 2:15 p. m., on Thanksgiving Day.

Duquesne shattered North Dakota's record of eight straight victories when it won by a 13-7 count last Saturday. However, the imposing array of teams defeated by the Sioux brands them a combination of great strength and power.

Delphi Elects Eight Outstanding Women

Honorary Inter-sorority Society Outlines Social Program for Year

Eight women were elected to membership in Delphi, honorary inter-sorority society, at a meeting Monday, November 16, to represent their respective sororities in the organization. They are Marian Boyle, Alpha Delta Pi; Ruth DeVane, Chi Omega; Edith Brookhart, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Louise Berryman and Betsy Garrett, El Beta Phi; Mary Margaret Henry and Betty Moonhead, Phi Delta and the Gibson, Sigma Kappa. The neophytes are all outstanding students, prominent socially as well as in extracurricular activities.

Marian Boyle has been active in University publications, serving on the staff of both the Cherry Tree and The Hatchet last year. She is an associate editor of The Hatchet, and held the same position on the staff of the Student Handbook. In addition she is a member of the Y. W. C. A., and an officer in her sorority.

Ruth DeVane is recognized for her work on the business staff of Troubadours. Last year she held the position of assistant business manager, and was rewarded by being appointed business manager this year.

Neophytes Choose Ballroom And Date For Pledge Formal

Dance Closed to All but Pledges, Goat Masters, and Members of Last Year Pledge Council

The new Kennedy-Warren ballroom has been selected as the scene of the annual Interfraternity Pledge Formal, which is to be held December 16, from 10 to 2.

Under the direction of Murray Watts, chairman of the Social Committee, plans have been made which will make this year's formal rival the Interfraternity Prom. The dance will be closed to all except pledges, of the fraternities of the Interfraternity Council, the goat masters, and the members of last year's pledge council. Favors and programs will be presented as souvenirs of the affair. Two Dagmoir bands will furnish the music.

All students are requested to have ticket No. 11 torn out of their ticket books for presentation at the gate Thursday afternoon to facilitate handling the crowds expected. It will be necessary to have the book present as well as the separate ticket.

North Dakota opened its gridiron season by decisively beating Gustavus Adolphus 47 to 0. The following week this feat was repeated by a 22-0 victory over St. Olaf. Next was a memorable game with De Paul, which earlier in the fall had defeated the powerful Detroit team, resulting in another triumph for North Dakota.

South Dakota University, led by George Washington last year, was whipped by the Nodaks by the one-sided count of 52 to 6. South Dakota State, 6, North Dakota, 24, was the result of their next contest.

Ties Powerful Oregon

Oregon, that powerful outfit from the far west that beat New York University, was held to a scoreless tie by the North Dakotans. North Dakota State and two other outfits fell before their onslaught before Duquesne achieved a victory in the game last Saturday.

There are two outstanding men, Fred Felber and John Burns, in the North Dakota aggregation who have been all-conference men for the past two years, and this pair will bear close scrutiny in the Thanksgiving Day contest.

Felber has been nominated by Flickertail adherents for all-American end honors. Sioux followers rate this youngster second to none in the country and claim he would have been on the mythical team in 1930 if he had been with any of the more publicized teams. He played on Jimmy Phelan's all-Western team against the Notre Dame stars, Christmas, and was the only end capable of stopping the rampages of Elder.

For two years no line has been able to stop John Burma, plunging fullback of the Sioux, who this year has led his teammates through nine games of an eleven game schedule. The 190-pound

Pep Rally

Twice this fall a group has sponsored a pep rally previous to important varsity contests, on the eve of the Tulsa game and the eve of the Butler fracas. Neither attempt was any outstanding success. The one held last Thursday previous to the Butler contest featured the newly organized University band, and proved to be one of the most inspiring the writer has ever attended, but there was only a mere handful of students present.

Perhaps it has been the time element which has prevented a large number of students from attending these rallies. The first was held at 7 o'clock, when most students were hurrying home to waiting dinners, and the second at 8 o'clock, when many doubtless found it difficult to return to school. Acting on this assumption Omicron Delta Kappa has taken upon itself the job of organizing a rally on Wednesday afternoon at 4:45—a time when most of the students of the University are gathered around Quigley's corner, or in front of Lisner Hall, with nothing to occupy their minds until class time. There will be no excuse for failure to support this rally Wednesday afternoon, so come around to the college yard and brush up on your cheering for the game on Thanksgiving day.

More Support

While we are on the subject of support, a word might be spoken for the efforts of a campus organization in sponsoring a charity tea dance on Thanksgiving Day following the North Dakota game. Corcoran Hall should be filled to overflowing on this occasion. This charity might well begin at home, and the proceeds be turned over to some deserving campus organization, such as the newly organized University band.

A Tough Proposition

Our coaching staff, after viewing the North Dakota-Duquesne game at Pittsburgh last Saturday, brings back word that this North Dakota outfit will be just about the strongest team to invade the capital this year, and this applies not only to the opponents of George Washington, but of the other D. C. schools as well.

The defeat by Duquesne, a comparatively weak team, was just another of those freak games, and the Colonials are going to have a busy Thanksgiving with these "Nodaks," who are out to avenge their first defeat of the season.

As if the game were not attraction enough, the University band will appear in public for the first time since its organization, so we can chalk up one victory at the start—that of the Council in organizing and financing our band.

Engineer Addresses Commerce Meeting

Gresham Bradford, nautical engineer, Hydrographic Division of the Navy Department, and former executive of the New York State Nautical School Ship, "Newport," addressed an open meeting sponsored by the Commerce and Economics fraternity, at 8 p. m., last night in Corcoran Hall. "The History of the American Merchant Marine" was the subject of the lecture.

This meeting was open to all students and members of the faculty, and marked the second of a series of presentations of commercial and economic importance to students, by outstanding speakers and writers in their respective fields.

The ideal study plan, as given to the students of Allegheny College, is to prepare a regular time study budget, do more free reading on the major subject, correct errors, say exactly what is meant, and waste no time "just sitting around."

Winchell Now "Telling All" On Lucky Strike Programs

Mrs. Winchell's bad little boy, Walter—known as "Gossip's Greatest American"—or vice versa ah, is now "telling all" over the radio, having recently "middle-aided" it with the sponsors of the Lucky Strike Dance Hour—promising to be very, very bad throughout all of the programs, for a limited period of four weeks.

Walter introduces the various famous dance bands that are heard on these thrice weekly programs—a different band each period—to say nothing of slipping the dear radio public the very latest "insides" on personalities of the "daze".

For those who want waltzes with their Winchell, there's Wayne King and his Orchestra, floating in from Chicago—or if it's the movie star's favorite rhythms that are desired, Gus Arnheim and his Orchestra are playing once a week from Los Angeles. And, of course, there's the quickened tempos of Andy Sannella's Orchestra playing from New York for those who want their music like their gossip—"low down."

CHIPS

Children, our first honest-to-goodness vacation is here!!! We've looked forward to this for some time, and no prof is going to spoil our fun by an assignment or an exam over the week end—Oh yeah! Come on, pros, be good sports and give us something to be really thankful for—how about it?

Let's see, we have a knock-down drag-out football game for meat this week and O. D. K. is favoring us and sweet charity with a tea dance after the fracas. All of which means we'll miss our great big turkey and all that comes and goes with it for about the steenth year in succession. Above sentiments will be forgiven and forgotten if we take these terrible North Dakotans into camp—n'est-ce pas?

Delphi starts right in where Gate and Key left off and gets all the social highlights under one tent. Give us a break, girls, and give us something social we don't have to pay for. Then we'll vote the new born honorary a rare success. Are you with me, boys?

This Liberal Club of ours is bringing up some very interesting sidelights on how we act during our "second childhood." From Dr. Freeman's talk we would gather that the only way to escape the queer traits of old age is to die young.

Talk about chewing nails! Our black friend who swallowed everything but the orchestra the other night is recovering nicely, thank you. The Dragons, with the help of our boy friend, Ray Elliott, contrived to put on a side show, minstrel show, and fashion show—all under one roof!!!

Oh, my! You guessers who grew up with Troubadours & Co. will cash in on your remembrances to the extent of a ticket or two to the antics of said company on December 10, 11, and 12. Rollo can tell you just as convenient a way to cash in, tho. Just wait till you see one of the cast looking at a certain picture in this issue and blushing furiously at the portrayal thereof of his dark past, and then you'll have him down cold. Don't depend on recognizing those innocent and very funny mugs to get in on the show. Better save up on your money, right now, for the big event!!!

In connection with our Thanksgiving exuberance it is gratifying to note that several organizations have done the business up brown by giving the city's poor a chance to feel happy, too. Rollo is no preacher but we imagine we can feel much better and enjoy our fun to the limit with a helping hand as one part of our anatomy.

W. A. A. crashes through with a banquet—which is the last thing we would expect from a bunch of girls who want to stay thin and hold that old S. A. Maybe they'll depend on Mary Hudson to turn chiropractor and chuck the toastmistress role. Success may come in one way or another.

Incidentally, we are receiving more than our share of parental supervision in The Hatchet's palatial quarters. It was our honor and extreme pleasure to entertain Dean Hill Sunday night (Society editor please note)—in fact he looked in for a whole minute.

We went down to get in on the first part of this picture taking for the Cherry Tree the other day. Mr. Casson recognized us, meaning Rollo, for the third year. Oh, well, education is its own reward.

Pi Phi threw a cuddle hug on Saturday night. If Rollo weren't so polite, he'd say he had a member of some other sorority there, and she wasn't interested in the Pi Phi settlement school, either. Well, we took her there—and brought her home, hotchall!

The sports editor of The Hatchet takes his secretary to all the games—to take dictation—oh, yeah!!!

Now, dear folks, if you never cheered before, or never sang before, or never made any undignified noise before, it's up to you to do all of these and more on Thursday. This is our climax, and Rollo would love to see some real enthusiasm out there when we take the rear end off the "Flickertails." Everybody, including you, is expected to yell himself hoarse for once this year!!! By the way, how about having the Glee Club lead us in the Buff and Blue going 'round that end? And the band will make things hum, too! Everybody at the game!

The foreign servicers held a smoker for those interested in the why and wherefore of Dean Donaldson's lectures. Those who were there couldn't decide whether the smoke came from the cigars or the Sino-Japanese guns.

Wanted: A copy of Moss' "Mind in Action." Unfortunately, we happened to see this ad changed on one of our bulletin boards to—Wanted: To See Moss' Mind in Action.

One last word—O. D. K. is giving the biggest Pep Rally of the year on Wednesday at 4:45 p. m. Join the fun for twenty minutes, and make plenty whoopee for the team. Let's go!!! Yours till North Dakota freezes over!!!

Colonials Exhibit Full Power Conquering Butler University Bulldogs 32-7 In Night Game

Carter Plunges Through Bulldog Line to Score Three Touchdowns; Carlin Stars with Long Run; Booz, Butler Fullback, Held In Check By Colonial Defense

The George Washington Colonials added another victory to their string last Friday night by taking the Butler Bulldogs down to defeat to the tune of a 32-7 score. The Colonials displayed a speedy backfield that went through and around the Butler forward wall with ease, justifying the opinion that the squad will really be in top form for the big game day after tomorrow. Carlin, with his fast stepping and line plunging, was the particular nemesis to those Hoosier Bulldogs. Carter took his part well in hitting the line for needed yards and giving excellent interference for his team mates, as well as putting the ball over for three touchdowns. Little "Soapy" Fenlon made his presence known by his numerous scamperings around end for gains. Parrish, as usual, demonstrated a steady efficiency in interference and defensive work.

Captain Ken Booz for the Hoosiers turned out to be all that he was touted and with some good interference might well have caused the Colonials some concern. Hughes, Zimmerman, and Ray, were outstanding of Butler's other backfield men. Elser, Brock, and Concannon were their best linemen, with Sohl not far behind.

Carlin Makes Flashy Run

G. W. took the kickoff but failed to gain and Carlin dropped back to punt on his own 30-yard line. His punt was among the longest of the season, going over the Butler goal line. With the ball on the 20-yard marker the Butler team started down the field, Booz leading the way. They advanced the ball to the 40-yard stripe but a penalty forced them to kick. Fenlon took the ball and was downed on the 85-yard line. Here the G. W. offensive started, with Carlin in the spotlight. Carlin tossed a pass to Chambers that was good for an 8-yard gain. Carlin, taking the ball on the next play, went through tackle for a 48-yard run for a touchdown. Chambers added the extra point to make the score 7-0 in the first few minutes of play.

Shortly after the kick-off an exchange of punts took place. Butler took the ball and tried without success an aerial attack. Booz threw two passes to Elser that if good would have counted for 30 yards. Taking a penalty for the two grounded passes Booz dropped back and punted the ball to Fenlon who scampered up to the 50-yard line before he was downed.

A pass, Fenlon to Chambers, counted for a 9-yard gain. Parrish broke through left tackle to place the ball on the Bulldogs' 30-yard line. Carlin and Carter went through the line for another first down and a pass from Carlin to Mulvey, flashy end, put the ball over the goal line. The point after the touchdown failed. Hughes received the ball for the Hoosiers, running it to the 30-yard stripe. After several thrusts at the line the Butlers kicked to G. W., Fenlon receiving and taking the ball to the 44-yard line, as the quarter ended.

Carter Makes Touchdown

Parrish and Carter advanced the ball to the Butler 30-yard marker as the second quarter got under way. A short pass, Carlin to Chambers, netted a few yards but the Butler line held taking the ball on downs. After an incomplete pass the Hoosiers fumbled and Fred Mulvey recovered for the Colonials. Carlin advanced the ball to the 8-yard line and Carter took it to the 2-yard line for a first down. On the next play Carter went over the line for a touchdown. Carlin missed the extra point, making the score 14-0.

Booz took the ball on the kick-off, running it 23 yards to the 43-yard stripe. Booz carrying the ball tore through the center of the line for a first down, putting it on the G. W. 47-yard line. Carter snared a pass on the next play and carried it to the Butler 38-yard line. A fumble by G. W. was retrieved by the Bulldogs on their own 35-yard marker. Booz hit the line for short gains to put the ball on the 47-yard line. Dike broke through the line to throw Booz for a five-yard loss. This loss added to a 15-yard penalty forced Butler to kick. Fenlon taking the kick was run outside on his own 38-yard line.

A tricky pass nearly spelled disaster for the Colonials when it was fumbled and recovered by Mercer, Butler right tackle. Booz, the whirlwind ball carrier, was called into play again, hitting the line for a seven-yard gain. A long pass to Keating was knocked down by Carter and G. W. took the ball on downs. The Colonials received a penalty which put the ball on the 10-yard line. A punt by Carlin was taken by Booz in the middle of the field. Two long, incomplete passes brought Butler a 5-yard penalty and they were forced to kick. Fenlon took the ball and was downed on the 28-yard line as the half ended with the score still 14-0 for the Colonials.

Carter Stars Again

Carter went on a rampage at the start of the second half hitting the line and going out around end for consistent gains to take the ball within the shadow of the Butler goal. Fenlon took the ball around right end for an 8-yard gain to put it on the 8-yard line. Carter came back into the fray and with two plunges through the line took the ball over for the fourth touchdown of the game. Parrish booted the ball over the upright for the extra point.

Kriensmeyer, who started the second half, made a beautiful placement kick to Ray, of Butler, who was dropped on the 20-yard marker. Butler,

BY GORDON V. POTTER

George Washington, according to the newspaper reports of the past week, very thoroughly upset the "dope" when it whipped Butler by the lopsided score of 32 to 7. A closely contested battle was expected but the superior power on the running plays by the Colonials overwhelmed the team from Indiana. With the exception of a two-minute period in the last quarter, Butler was consistently outplayed by the Buff and Blue.

Butler might have fared better had it shifted offensive ends out a bit. Throughout the fray the Colonial ends played wide on defense, and consequently boxed the offensive ends and tackles of the Butler outfit, thus smothering practically all attempts around the ends.

The famed George Washington passing attack did little functioning in the Butler game. To those who noticed the fine points, it will merely be a reminder to say it was by a series of power plays that the Colonials made the majority of their five touchdowns.

Those footballers from North Dakota certainly have a wealth of nicknames, which is, incidentally, a bon to the hardworking sports writer. Nodaks, Sioux, Redmen, North Dakotans, and Flickertails are among the cognomens by which this team is called.

If the members of the North Dakota team play football like the aborigines after whom they are named play their games, the Colonials will certainly have to retaliate with a fierceness of like quality and quantity.

With all due credit to Mr. Booz of Butler, one little tow-headed back who wore his kidney pads reversed, played as spirited a game as any man on the field. When any linesman faltered, this little blonde boy was right on him. Small as he was, his tackling was on a par with the best.

Joe Carter was again the scintillating light of the Colonials' offense and defense. His off-tackle dashes were a pleasure to watch. He had an uncanny ability to pick the right spot to break through the line of scrimmage. Time and again he would bring down with deadly accuracy the butler backs that broke through the George Washington forward wall.

There was one Colonial linesman who rose to the heights in this contest and he was the bareheaded fellow at guard. Stewart, heretofore little seen, played a consistently fine game.

unable to make any headway against the stalwart forward wall of the Colonials, punted the ball rolling out on the 46-yard stripe. Carter started what appeared to be another march for the goal but a fumble ruined all such hopes and the Bulldogs took possession of the ball.

Booz tossed two passes, one to Ray for 12 yards and one to Brock for 5 yards. After an exchange of punts Ray threw a pass to Booz that was good for 13 yards and they both hit the line to put the ball on the G. W. 14-yard stripe as the quarter ended.

Butler Scores By Pass

The Colonials took a stand at the outset of the last quarter and as a result received the ball on downs. Another exchange of punts gave Butler the ball on the G. W. 43-yard line. Booz started out like a tornado at this point, going around left end to the 13-yard line. With the aid of a G. W. penalty and a nicely executed pass the Hoosiers went over the goal line for their only tally of the game. Booz added the extra point, making the score 28-7.

The game was nearing its close when Carter made his way through left tackle, eluding all tacklers and romping a total of 46 yards, for the last touchdown of the game. Matia missed the try for the extra point. G. W. kicked off and Butler advanced the ball to the middle of the gridiron where the game ended with the final score 32-7 for the Colonials.

Duquesne Triumphs Over North Dakota

Dukes Break Nodaks Winning Streak of Eight Games in Upset of Dope

North Dakota University, which will meet Jim Pixlee's Colonials on Thanksgiving Day, upset the dope Saturday by losing to a battling Duquesne eleven 13-7. The team had previously won eight straight victories over powerful western elevens. This game gave Duquesne a chance to avenge a 1930 defeat at the hands of the Flickertails.

The Dukes went into the game underdogs, but showed unusual power in their drives on the offense. However, Len Walsh, line coach for the Colonials, scouted the game and seems to think North Dakota failed to get the breaks. He says, "While Duquesne showed power in their drives and on the defense, North Dakota outplayed them both in offense and defense. They should give George Washington a merry battle Thanksgiving, as they have a well-balanced team."

North Dakota scored in the second period, but Duquesne came back in the third and fourth with a touchdown in each. Devinney went over from the one yard stripe for the first Duke score and Zannelli caught a pass from Sullivan as he crossed the line for the second.

North Dakota scored after Richmond intercepted a Duquesne pass and ran 34 yards to the two yard line. Pierce made the tally on an off tackle play. The Thanksgiving game will give an opportunity for comparative scores between George Washington and Catholic University. The Cardinals defeated Duquesne earlier in the season and the latter in turn beat North Dakota. So it remains to be seen how George Washington and North Dakota come out.

He conserved his energy at all times, for instead of arising from the melee and proceeding to his place in the line he merely crawled to it. Between plays he might have seemed a bit lethargic, but when the ball was snapped he was there and usually before anyone else.

Fenlon and Carlin were also among the brilliant backfield men who accounted for long gains. Blackie Hoffman, a substitute back, arose to the occasion and tore through the Butler aggregation in a number of plays.

Those who attended the Green Dragon's pep rally, although they perhaps didn't know it, also attended the first public appearance of the George Washington student band. The showing made by the organization was most gratifying. As 27 members of the band were present and as there are 35 enrolled, the appearance of this group in their flashy uniforms on Thanksgiving day should help mightily to impart spirit to the team and the student body.

Interfraternity basketball made its bow to the adherents of the Grecian sports last week in the form of four interesting games. Again Billy Woodward, stellar guard of Sigma Nu, starred and if he keeps up the pace he has set for himself, the Snakes must be watched. Another star appeared on the horizon in the person of Don Kline of S. A. E. who plays a fine game and was close on the heels of Woodward for individual honors.

The drop-kick is coming back to its former important place in football. It was an odd coincidence that both of the leading contests last Saturday, namely the Southern California-Notre Dame and Harvard-Yale contests, were both decided by a boot from the toe.

Freeman, Noted Neurologist, Discusses Second Childhood

"Second Childhood" was the subject of a highly entertaining lecture delivered before 300 enthusiastic students by Dr. Walter Freeman, noted neurologist, at a meeting of the Liberal Club last Wednesday evening in Corcoran Hall 10.

Dr. Freeman pointed out that the cause for second childhood is the deterioration of certain organisms in the brain. The speaker illustrated his lecture by a set of motion pictures, giving examples of the queer effects of this degeneration of the brain.

At the conclusion of Dr. Freeman's speech a short meeting was held.

FINIS PARRISH

Carlin and Parrish, who so well filled the positions of quarterback and fullback in the Butler game, are among the most outstanding men on our squad. Parrish has been in every contest of the season and has played a consistently good game. One of the best of the Colonials on defense, he also has shown exceptionally well in the role of ball carrying and blocking. All in all, his play for the year has been of the best. Carlin is without a doubt the most brilliant back on the squad, at times scintillating with his running and passing. When he is at his best his broken field running is a sight to marvel at and seldom do his passes go wrong. This combination bids well to show its wares more fully in the North Dakota game.

Three Lucky Guessers Will Be Awarded Complimentary Seats At "Happy Landings"

Contestants Must Recognize Baby Pictures of Cast Members and Write Hundred and Fifty Word Essay; Saturday Closing Date

Free tickets to "Happy Landings?" Impossible, you say. But it's the truth; three lucky G. W.-ites are going to be guests of the Troubadours at their 1931 production, to be given at McKinley Auditorium December 10, 11, and 12. We don't know what three people they will be. It might be anyone.

On this page of The Hatchet, are pictures of several very beautiful children. These youngsters grew up to be members of the cast of "Happy Landings." Do you recognize them? Of course, we know who's who, but the object of this contest is to see if you do. Each picture is numbered. Members of the cast are Ruth Moynaux, Bert Bagranoff, Louise Berryman, Dolph Atherton, Midge Burnham, Joe Danzansky, Grant Van Demark, Katherine Wessels, and Bill Claudy. But it's only fair to tell you that there's a picture of Dan Beattie there, too.

To the student who submits the most correct set of these pictures clipped from The Hatchet with the proper names of the cast matched with the numbers of the pictures, and who, in addition, writes the best letter, not to exceed one hundred and fifty words, giving what in his opinion is the service rendered to the University as a whole by the Troubadours, the Troubadours will award as first prize, four reserved seats to either of the three performances of "Happy Landings." To the student who submits the next most correct list and letter, a second prize of three reserved seats to any performance will be given. And a third prize of two reserved seats will be awarded the student submitting the third most correct list and letter. In case no one turns in a perfect set of pictures, the most nearly perfect sets will be judged for the awards.

In case two or more persons submit identical lists, correctly naming the same number of cast members, the one writing the best letter, in the opinion of the judges will receive the award. The judges will be Dennis E. Connell, who is coaching the cast, Dan Beattie, managing director of the Troubadours, and Mildred Burnham, publicity director.

Contest Open to All Students

The contest is open to all students of the University, with the exception of members of the cast, of the chorus, and of the various business staffs of the Troubadours.

Clip the picture from The Hatchet, attach a list matching the numbers of the pictures with the names of the members of the cast whom you believe them to be, write a letter, not exceeding one hundred and fifty words, telling what you think is the benefit of the Troubadours to the George Washington University, and mail them to Catherine Prichard, assistant publicity director of the Troubadours, care of the Registrar's Office, George Washington University, by Friday, November 27. The letters and pictures must be in the hands of the judges by Saturday morning, in order that the results of the contest may be announced in The Hatchet of December 1.

No letter exceeding one hundred and fifty words will be considered in judging the contest. There will be no penalty for incorrect guessing of the pictures. Credit will be given solely on the number of pictures correctly identified. So if you are doubtful about some of them, put down someone's name. There's nothing to lose.

Remember, three people will receive free tickets to "Happy Landings." Why not be one of them?

Alpha Sigma Eta Plans New Group

Eagle Scouts Hope to Found Chapter of Fraternity at University

Scouting ran its pennant to the G. W. forenoon last Wednesday night when R. Beecher Butts, Harmon scholar, called the University's Eagle Scouts together for the purpose of discussing ways and means of forming a George Washington chapter of Alpha Sigma Eta, national Eagle Scout fraternity. There was a very limited discussion, for the thirteen men present who hold the highest rank afforded by the Boy Scouts of America voted as one man for the organization of the chapter.

Professor Paul Bartsch, of the Biology Department, and Linn Drake, head of the D. C. Council B. S. A., attended to sponsor the meeting and lend encouragement. They delivered speeches concerning the benefits of membership in the organization and talked about their own fraternity days.

A committee for the supervision of pertinent matters was elected. R. B. Butts, famous for his scout work in Oklahoma, was chosen chairman; Paul Bartsch, Jr., well known in Washington scouting circles, was elected acting secretary; L. Ron Hubbard was appointed as the third member of the committee.

Four corners of the continent were represented by the thirteen Eagle Scouts. Only a few were from the District of Columbia. The others came from the States of Washington, Vermont, Florida, California, Utah, Texas, and Montana.

A second meeting of Alpha Sigma Eta aspirants is scheduled for the Wednesday after Thanksgiving. It is hoped that the Eagle Scouts who did not attend the last meeting will be present then.

Buff and Blue Will Play Powerful North Dakota In Thanksgiving Contest

streak is playing his last season at North Dakota and from reports it is his greatest, the backfield being built up by Coach C. A. West around this big fellow. Besides carrying the ball Burns has done a majority of the passing, and in an excellent manner.

A big team is this outfit from the northern Dakota, with an average poundage of 182 to a man. The backfield and line average 175 and 184 pounds, respectively. With such weight behind the speed that is attributed to the Nodaks it is obvious that the Colonials will have to fight, as they never have before, for every inch of ground gained.

The team from North Dakota arrived in Washington from its contest with Duquesne Sunday afternoon, and will be housed in the Annapolis Hotel during its stay in the District. Having three days to practice in Griffith stadium and generally acclimate themselves to the climate and conditions of Washington, the North Dakotans should present an eleven in top notch physical and mental condition for the fray with the Colonials.

A victory over the Flickertails would establish irrefutably the prestige of the Buff and Blue in the minds of Washingtonians as far as inter-sectional affairs are concerned. And if such a victory results, interest in the exceedingly difficult George Washington schedule of 1932 will increase accordingly.

Successful Bridge Results Announced

Columbian Women Report $400 Proceeds; 425 People Attend

Proceeds estimated at about $400 are the result of the very successful bridge of the Columbian Women of George Washington University on Saturday, November 21.

A group, even greater than expected, was present at the function held at the Kennedy-Warren.

Tables for approximately 425 people were attractively arranged in the new ballroom. Members of the University sororities, under the chairmanship of Miss Louise Moore assisted in the selling of candy. The result of this alone was $27.

Members of Troubadour Cast

Troubadours' Band Will Play New Hits

"Happy Landings" Proud of Orchestra; Begin to Show Technique

The Troubadour Orchestra, under Dan Beattie and George Wenzl, has been definitely chosen and is ready with several numbers for the show, "Happy Landings." The orchestra shows professional technique and the Troubadours are quite proud of this new innovation. The theme song, "We'll Come Smiling Through," is of the popular type this year and will be plugged throughout the show as is done in professional musical comedies. This number was written by Beattie.

The musical score for "Happy Landings" has been written by Beattie, assisted by Wenzl. Some of the numbers are: "I'll Be on the Up and Up With You," "Oh Yeah," "Peeping Through the Clouds," "Only in Dreams," "Happy Landings," and others, including such comedy numbers as "Keep Kissing" and "I Tell Lies Something Awful." The music this year is varied, tuneful and snappy. One number, "Clothes Make the Girl Make the Man," will introduce the surprise feature of the show.

Among the specialties are: tap and eccentric dances, singing and instrumental trios, comedy skits, a tango and a comedy quartet.

The various phases of the show are ready and will be put together as a whole this week. There are many fine voices in the cast and everything looks favorable for the best show the Troubadours have ever presented.

College For Hoboes To Have University Curriculum On Tap

Institution to Be Dedicated to the Late James E. Howe, Millionaire Hobo

College education for hoboes is now the latest educational surprise. And it's an actual fact, not the nightmare of some scenario writer. The hoboes of the country are really planning a university of their own.

At a convention held in Astoria Hall, New York, last week, the matter was thoroughly discussed, and it was decided that the school would begin functioning as soon as the third floor of the building can be repaired for that purpose. The curriculum will be similar to that of any regular college, including philosophy, sociology, history, and a number of other subjects. A new hoboes' welfare bureau will also be established as a part of the university.

In memory of the late "millionaire hobo," the institution is to be known as the James Eads Howe University. The extensive buildings and equipment of most American institutions of higher learning will, of course, be omitted. The greatest expense will be $35 a week rent for the classroom. To make up for this lack they hope, however, to have good teachers. The chairman of the convention, Dan O'Brien, announced that well known educators, supreme in their various fields, would be sought as guest lecturers.

It sounds ridiculous, but many a school has started on as shaky a foundation. It'll probably be a great success, and five years from now will announce that it's turning co-ed.

Graduate Women Entertained

Beta chapter of Phi Delta Gamma national graduate sorority, entertained graduate women students at tea at the Lambie House, November 11, 12, and 22.

These are two of a series of social events which Phi Delta Gamma planned for the year in honor of the new graduate women students. At both teas the attendance was large.

Former Students Receive Literary Honors For Books

"The Lady Who Came to Stay," by R. E. Spencer and "Hello Wisconsin," by John Poul Cullen, both former students of George Washington, have received national literary honors. These publications are first works. Spencer's work, "The Lady Who Came to Stay," was selected as the October Book of the Month by the Editorial Board of the Book League of America. It was written while he was attending night school here at the University.

A brief autobiographical sketch of Mr. Spencer appeared in the October Book League Monthly. He was born in Ogden, Utah, on December 23, 1896, and traveled a great deal during the first six years of his life. He was forced to leave school at the age of 10, following the sudden death of his father, and went to work in a department store. From then on, until the World War, he was employed as an office boy and a clerk in various positions; he also became a student of music, but later gave this up.

Spencer read as much as he could of such authors as Dumas, Dickens, Poe, Emerson and Hugo. In February, 1918, he enrolled in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army, and at the close of the war became a federal employee on the north Pacific coast. He liked the country and his work, and studied in order to gain promotion. Although he was transferred several times, he always failed in his attempts to be returned to the coast. In 1921, he went to Portland, Oregon, on leave of absence, where he was married. In 1923 he was sent to Washington, D. C., where he found he could advance no further without a college degree. Thus, after a lapse of 18 years, he returned to school. Spencer says that his study here was the best thinking discipline he ever had, and it was during this period, 1923-28, that he wrote his very successful novel, "The Lady Who Came to Stay," which was published in 1930 by Alfred A. Knopf, culminating his four years of work on it during the summer months.

John Paul Cullen is a native of Wisconsin, but he has roamed throughout the country and in Europe. He served overseas during the late war, Boston.

To Enter Ten Illustrations in Exhibit With Best Architectural Designs

J. B. Himmelheber, 28-year-old student of Architectural Design in the Fine Arts Division, whose illustrations appear in the rotogravure section of the Sunday Star, has been invited by the American Federation of Arts to enter ten illustrations in a traveling exhibit which will embody works of some of America's best architectural designers.

Mr. Himmelheber's series, "Our Washington," which has featured in the Star for over a year, has received attention all over the country. His works will appear alongside works by three well-known New York artists, Hugh Ferriss, Chester Price, and Otto R. Eggers. The exhibit will be shown in various architectural clubs, departments, and schools throughout the country beginning this week. It is described in the Federation catalogue as "a series of about forty renderings representing the work of four illustrators who are very different in style. Ferriss interprets imaginatively in a somewhat abstract manner, the great skyscrapers of the metropolis of the future."

"Himmelheber represents well known buildings and views of the Nation's Capital with a suggestion of sunlight and shadow. Price and Eggers are well known to students of architecture throughout the country."

"Himmelheber portrays buildings and structure with faithful attention to the more characteristic detail, but without any hard, photographic rendition of unessentials. The young illustrator, a graduate of the University of Maryland, has been a resident of Washington for the last eight years," says The Evening Star.

and has worked in the wheat fields of the West. A student at Notre Dame and Georgetown Universities, he received his A. B. degree at George Washington in 1928, and a Master of Arts degree in English in 1930. According to latest accounts, he is an employee of the Veterans' Bureau.

"Hello Wisconsin" is a collection of short stories and sketches, reflecting the background of his travels. The majority of them concern an imaginary town in Wisconsin, Abbeyville, while others are an overseas story, the romance of a clerk in a government department here, and a story of the North Dakota wheat fields. Four of the stories were written for a short-story course of Professor Bement at George Washington. The book was published by the Meador Press in Boston.

Aesthetic Nymphs End Long Dispute Over Club's Name

Is it Orcheosis, Orkeosis, or what? Wondering freshmen, amused sophomores, superior juniors, and cynical seniors all are asking, "What is this Orcheosis thing?" It sounds like a dairy or a cheese club, especially since it has such names as Schmidt, Schweitzer, and Kraft on its roll. But it's no cheesy organization even though it does use the cream of the crop most successfully. Orcheosis is a dance club, and is pronounced Or-ke-sis by Miss Ruth Aubeck, its sponsor.

All those interested in this back-to-nature movement, installed here last spring, should drop around to building R and see the usual Stygian darkness of the basement aglow with fluttering Greek tunics. As for membership, one should see Miss Ruth Aubeck, or Harriet Atwell, president.

World News

BY JAMES COBERLY

This Manchurian muddle becomes more and more complicated with every hour that passes. No sooner is the pronunciation learned for one set of names than another springs up. Early in the week hostilities centered around the Nonni bridge center which the Japanese were striving to rebuild. Chinese forces were under the command of the new national hero, General Ma Chankun. Under pressure he fell back to the fortified city of Tsitsihar which then became the object of Japanese aggression. Ma's forces, numbering about 20,000, were defeated by 3,000 Japanese in a fierce battle waged in below-zero weather. Ma attempted to collect his forces and was reported moving southward near Chinchow.

Meantime the League of Nations had met again in Paris. Ambassador Dawes was ordered from London to represent the United States. Although his status was no greater than that of Prentiss B. Gilbert at Geneva, his hotel soon became the unofficial gathering place of the delegates and any plan for relief of the situation was expected to come from that direction.

An armament truce proposed by the League was turned down by both belligerents. Massing of troops continued with the expectation of Soviet interference if Japan continued her activities along the Chinese Eastern Railway which is in the Russian sphere of influence. Some concerted effort by the Chinese seemed probable as President Chiang Kai-Shek of the Nationalist government of Nanking announced his intention of leading an army against General Honjo, the Japanese leader in Manchuria, unless immediate action was taken by the League.

The attempt of the Japanese to set up an independent government in Manchuria headed by the one-time boy emperor, fell through and he was reported to have left Mukden. Just where he has been and how he got there remains one of the mysteries of the undeclared war. At the close of the week Aristide Briand announced that the policy of the League would be that of conducting an investigation of the affairs with a view to deciding the rights of the contestants. That course was the only one left when it became apparent that other methods were not receiving the support of all members.

President Hoover continued his series of interviews on world affairs last week when he entertained Dino Grandi at the White House. Grandi, the young minister of Foreign Affairs for Mussolini, and the President found that they were in accord on the subjects discussed.

The Democratic Party, having suddenly come into the limelight after several years of obscurity, found itself confronted with a number of perplexing problems. The worst of these is the organization of the House when Congress meets in December. With a majority practically assured and its consequent control of the lower body, the party of Jefferson was torn by dissension over proposed chairmanships.

The Tory party got under way in the House of Commons last week and dispelled any doubts as to its course of action along tariff lines. An "abnormal importations" act was passed carrying duties as high as 100 per cent if they are thought necessary. An immediate levy of 50 per cent was placed on certain classes of imports, to go into effect next week. Action on the part of the United States is expected as it will feel the results of duty more than other nations. The existing tariff on automobiles is cited as a precedent for retaliatory measures.

Tuesday, Briand announced that the one year armament truce sponsored by Dino Grandi was in force, having become effective November 1. It has been ratified by seven leading powers, the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Japan, and numerous smaller nations. It seems rather ironical that Japan should be one of the signers in view of complications existing in the East.

Germany was successful in invoking the Young Plan for a consideration of her debt situation. A committee will be formed by the Bank for International Settlements to study the ability of Germany to pay her obligations. One of Germany's claims was that the moratorium proposed by President Hoover would be insufficient to remedy her ills. This action is the first direct result of the visit between Premier Laval and the President early in November. Upon his return to France Laval immediately entered into negotiations with von Hoesch resulting in the contemplated action.

Spectacular advances on the grain market turned out to be merely speculative moves and losses were experienced in trading last week. The rise on the grain market stopped abruptly on rumors of peace in the East. Business conditions seemed somewhat improved. The National Credit Corporation found that the psychology of its inception had removed much of its need as loans were being placed with small bankers and hoarding continued to decrease. President Hoover proposed further relief of economic ills in the shape of a banking system backed by federal funds to aid thawing of frozen real estate loans.

Levin Will Lecture On Power Question

Liberal Club Will Hear Discussion of Tactics of Public Utilities

Mr. Jack Levin, member of the Research Staff of the People's Legislative Service, will speak on "Power Ethics" before the Liberal Club at 8 o'clock Saturday, November 28, at the home of Dr. T. S. Harding in Mt. Rainier, Md. This talk will disclose how the public utilities are spreading propaganda favorable to themselves in the press, in civic organizations, and in schools. Mr. Levin's statements in regard to this propaganda are based entirely upon material drawn from the files of the utilities themselves and upon the sworn testimony of utilities officials before the Federal Trade Commission.

Charles A. Ford, prominent historian, says, "Mr. Levin's 'Power Ethics' is a serious contribution to the study of propaganda."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh says, "It is highly gratifying to me that the disclosures made through the investigations conducted by the Federal Trade Commission concerning the sinister propaganda carried on by the power companies has thus been summarized by Mr. Levin for the information of the long-suffering public."

wick, Cape Breton Island, and Prince Edward Island. Interesting details concerning the occupations of the people, the universities, etc., of the various villages of these provinces, were discussed by Professor Ragatz. Special mention was made of Moncton and St. John, New Brunswick.

In describing the Bay of Fundy, Professor Ragatz said that its famous high tides and reversing falls are far from being hearsay. Prince Edward Island seemed to be the garden spot of Canada.

because they're fresh

CAMELS are never parched or toasted!

FOLKS who smoke really fresh cigarettes made from choice sun-ripened tobaccos never have to give a thought to their throats.

That's because such fresh cigarettes retain natural moisture — and are gratefully smooth, cool, throat-friendly, mild.

Camels are the fresh cigarette — everyone knows that now — they're blended from the finest Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that money and skill can buy.

We would never dream of parching or toasting these choice sun-ripened tobaccos — that would only drive off or destroy the natural moisture that makes Camels fresh in nature's own mild way.

The Camel Humidor Pack protects a fine cigarette fresh with natural moisture — it could do little or nothing to freshen a cigarette that is dried-out or factory-stale.

If you smoke for pleasure, see for yourself what freshness means in mildness and flavor — switch to Camels for just one day — then leave them, if you can!

Bert sang with the Troubadours last summer and this fall, and with the Washington Musical Art Gallery. In fact, you can tune in most any night and hear him, either with one of these groups, or as a solo artist. He's a real radio star.

And there's an angle of Bert's musical activity that may not be so well known. Bert sings tenor solo with the choir of the Epiphany Church, regarded as one of the finest in the city. But since Bert is a native of St. Louis, something should be known of his activities there. He has sung at practically all the theaters there, at "The Tent" (it's a night-club), and over stations KMOX and WIL.

Bert was missed from the Troubadour show last year, but we'll hear him singing love songs to the heroine again, in "Happy Landings." Bert completes his third year here in June. He is a Theta Delta Chi.

WHY

do more and more
smokers say:

"I've changed to Chesterfield"

BECAUSE...

THEY'RE MILD. It's the tobacco! The mildest that money can buy. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine... cured by the farmer... then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads.

THEY TASTE BETTER. These tobaccos are put together right. Rich aroma of Turkish and mellow sweetness of Domestic, blended and cross-blended to Chesterfield's own BETTER TASTE.

THEY'RE PURE. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists. The purest cigarette paper made, tasteless, odorless. Sanitary manufacture... no hands touch your Chesterfields. They're as pure as the water you drink!

THEY SATISFY. You break open a clean, tight-sealed package. You light up a well-filled cigarette. Yes, sir... you're going to like this cigarette! And right there is where many a smoker changes to Chesterfield. They Satisfy!
